Allowances

Subsistence allowances and advances

Where the recipient is obliged to spend at least one night away from his/her usual place of residence on business, and the accommodation to which that allowance or advance relates is in South Africa, and the allowance or advance is granted to pay for:

- meals and incidental costs, an amount of R570 per day is deemed to have been expended.
- incidental costs only, an amount of R176 for each day which falls within the period is deemed to have been expended.

These rates also apply where an employee is obliged to be away from the office on a day trip.

Overseas costs: The applicable rate per country is available on the SARS website at Subsistence Allowances and Advances | South African Revenue Service \(sars.gov.za\) or Legal Counsel / Secondary Legislation / Income Tax Notices on the SARS website.

Travel allowance

A log book confirming business kilometres travelled and total kilometres travelled during the tax year must be maintained in order to claim a deduction against the travel allowance.

PAYE must be withheld by the employer on 80% of the allowance granted to the employee.

The withholding percentage may be reduced to 20% if the employer is satisfied that at least 80% of the use of the motor vehicle for the tax year will be for business purposes.

No fuel and/or maintenance costs may be claimed if the employee has not borne the full cost thereof (e.g. if the vehicle is covered by a maintenance plan).

The fixed cost must be reduced on a pro-rata basis if the vehicle is used for business purposes for less than a full year.

www.jacc.co.za

Alternative simplified method:

No tax is payable on a reimbursement paid by an employer to an employee which does not exceed the SARS rate per kilometre, regardless of the value of the vehicle.

The SARS rate per kilometre for the 2026 tax year will be available on the SARS website under Legal Counsel / Secondary Legislation / Income Tax Notices.

This alternative simplified method is not available if other compensation in the form of an allowance or reimbursement (other than for parking or toll fees) is received from the employer in respect of the vehicle.

Travel table

The actual distance travelled during the tax year and the distance travelled for business purposes, substantiated by a logbook, are used to determine the cost which may be claimed against a travelling allowance.

Rates per kilometre which may be used in determining the allowable deduction for business travel against an allowance or advance where actual costs are not claimed, are determined by using the table on SARS's website.

Fringe benefits

Employer-provided vehicles

The taxable value is 3,5% of the determined value (the cash cost including VAT) per month of each vehicle.

However, where the vehicle is:

- the subject of a maintenance plan when the employer acquired the vehicle, the taxable value is 3,25% of the determined value; or
- acquired by the employer under an operating lease, the taxable value is the cost incurred by the employer under the operating lease plus the cost of fuel.

80% of the fringe benefit must be included in the employee's remuneration for the purposes of calculating PAYE.

The percentage is reduced to 20% if the employer is satisfied that at least 80% of the use of the motor vehicle for the tax year will be for business purposes.

On assessment, the fringe benefit for the tax year is reduced by the ratio of the distance travelled for business purposes substantiated by a logbook, divided by the actual distance travelled during the tax year.

On assessment, further relief is available for the cost of licence, insurance, maintenance and fuel for private travel, if the full cost thereof has been borne by the employee, and if the distance travelled for private purposes is substantiated by a logbook.

Employer-provided residential accommodation

In the case of employer-provided residential accommodation, where the employer-provided accommodation is leased by the employer from an unconnected third party, the value of the fringe benefit to be included in gross income is the lower of:

- the cost to the employer of providing the accommodation; and
- the amount calculated with reference to the formula.

“Remuneration proxy” is the remuneration derived by the employee in the previous year of assessment and is used in the formula mentioned above. It has been proposed that the term “remuneration proxy” be amended to include exempt foreign remuneration.

The formula will apply if the accommodation is owned by the employee, but it does not apply to holiday accommodation hired by the employer from non-associated institutions.

Interest-free or low-interest loans

The fringe benefit to be included in gross income is the difference between interest charged at the official rate for the benefit and the actual amount of interest charged.

www.jacc.co.za

Exemptions

Interest and dividend income

Under 65 years of age–

The first R23 800 of interest income is exempt.

65 years of age and over –

The first R34 500 of interest income is exempt.

Interest is exempt if earned by a non-resident person who is an individual and who is physically absent from South Africa for at least 183 days during the 12 month period before the interest accrues, or if the debt from which the interest arises is not effectively connected to a permanent establishment of that non-resident person in South Africa.

Interest exemptions are subject to apportionment in a tax year in which an individual ceases to be a South African tax resident. South African dividends are generally exempt after the withholding of dividends tax (except to the extent that anti-avoidance provisions have been triggered).

Foreign interest and dividends

There is no exemption in respect of foreign sourced interest income.

Where an individual holds less than 10% of the equity share capital of a foreign company which distributes a dividend, the dividend will be taxed at a maximum effective rate of 20%, as determined by a formula.

No deductions are allowed for expenditure to produce foreign dividends.

Foreign remuneration exemption

Where an employee works abroad for more than a certain amount of qualifying days (see below), that foreign remuneration is exempt from tax in South Africa. The exemption is limited to the first R1.25 million of foreign remuneration.

For the foreign remuneration exemption to be applied, an employee must be rendering services outside of South Africa for more than 183 days in a 12-month period and for more than 60 consecutive days in the same 12-month period.

In an effort to reduce the cash flow burden on the employee, the South African employer may apply to SARS for a tax directive allowing Foreign Tax Credits (FTCs) as a tax reduction in the South African payroll.

Employees who are not remunerated via a South African payroll will be considered provisional taxpayers and will be required to claim the FTCs when filing their provisional and annual tax returns.

Fringe benefit exemption for employer provided bursaries

Employer-provided bursaries to employees are not subject to income eligibility thresholds or monetary limit criteria.

However, there are other criteria, such as repayment conditions, that must be met for the bursary to be exempt entirely.

The remuneration eligibility threshold applicable to employees in respect of bursaries granted to their relatives, is R600 000.

The monetary limits for bursaries to relatives are as follows:

- R20 000 for grade R to grade 12 or for qualifications up to and including NQF level 4; and
- R60 000 for qualifications from NQF level 5 and above.

The monetary limits for relatives with disabilities are as follows:

- R30 000 for grade R to grade 12 or for qualifications up to and including NQF level 4; and
- R90 000 for qualifications from NQF level 5 and above.

No exemption applies if the bursary is subject to an element of salary sacrifice.

Deductions from income – Individuals

Contributions to pension, provident and retirement annuity funds

Employer contributions to South African retirement funds for the benefit of employees are deemed to be taxable fringe benefits in the hands of employees. Depending on the nature of the fund, the fringe benefit is either the actual cash value of the contribution or determined by a formula. The employee will be deemed to have made contributions to the value of the fringe benefit (which, together with their own contributions, may be eligible for a deduction).

The annual tax deduction for contributions to all retirement funds is limited to the lower of R350 000, or 27,5% of the greater of taxable income before the inclusion of a taxable capital gain (excluding retirement and severance lump sums) or remuneration (excluding retirement and severance lump sums). Any contributions in excess of the limitations will be rolled forward and will be available for deduction in future tax years, subject to the annual limitations applicable in those tax years. Any non-deductible contributions will be available for deduction against retirement lump sums or annuity income on withdrawal or retirement from the fund.

Retirement reform

Effective 1 September 2024 (in terms of the two-pot system regime), persons who contribute to South African retirement funds will have limited pre-retirement access to some of their retirement savings. Marginal tax rates will apply to the savings accessed pre-retirement.

Donations to certain PBOs

Deductions in respect of donations to certain Public Benefit Organisations (PBOs) are limited to 10% of taxable income (excluding retirement fund lump sums and severance benefits).

The amount of donations exceeding 10% of the taxable income is treated as a donation to qualifying PBOs in the following tax year. Third-party reporting has been extended to tax deductible donations made, so that SARS can pre-populate these on the relevant tax returns.

Home office deduction

Employees who work from home more than 50% of the time, and have set aside a room to be occupied for the purpose of “trade”, may be allowed to deduct certain expenses incurred in maintaining a home office. The deduction will be calculated on a pro-rata basis, provided that the requirements as set out in section 11(a) of the Income Tax Act, read in conjunction with sections 23(b) and 23(m), are met.

More details are available on the SARS website: Home Office Expenses | South African Revenue Service \(sars.gov.za\).

Medical and disability expenses

Taxpayers may deduct from their tax liability a tax credit (i.e. a rebate) of:

- R364 per month for each of the first two beneficiaries and in respect of medical aid contributions.

Taxpayers 65 years and older and those with disabilities under the age of 65 years or with disabled dependents may deduct an additional medical expenses tax credit (rebate) equal to 33,3% of the sum of:

- qualifying medical expenses; and
- an amount by which the contributions paid exceed three times (3x) the medical tax credits for the year.

Taxpayers under the age of 65 years may deduct an additional medical expenses tax credit (rebate) equal to 25% of the sum of:

- qualifying medical expenses; and
- an amount by which the contributions paid exceeds four times (4x) the medical tax credits for the year, but limited to the amount which exceeds 7,5% of taxable income (excluding retirement lump sums and severance benefits).

Payroll taxes and levies

Employees' tax / Pay-As-You-Earn (PAYE)

Resident employers, representative employers and with effect from 22 December 2023, non-resident employers who are conducting business through a permanent establishment in South Africa, are required to withhold PAYE from all remuneration paid to employees.

The PAYE must be paid to SARS by the 7th day of the month following the month in which the remuneration is received. If the 7th falls on a weekend or public holiday, the payment must be made by the last business day before the 7th.

Employees' tax and personal income tax administration reforms are expected.

Unemployment Insurance Fund (UIF)

UIF contributions are payable by both resident and non-resident employers to SARS on a monthly basis and are calculated at a rate of 2% of remuneration paid or payable (1% employee and 1% employer contribution, based on the employee's remuneration) to each employee during the month.

The monthly threshold increased to a maximum threshold of R17 712 per month (R212 544 per year) from 1 June 2021.

Employers (including non-resident employers) not registered for PAYE or SDL purposes must pay the contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Commissioner.

With effect from 1 March 2018, foreign nationals working in South Africa and employees undergoing learnership training are subject to UIF.

Skills Development Levy (SDL)

Both resident and non-resident employers with a payroll of more than R500 000 per year must account for SDL at a rate of 1% of total remuneration paid to employees. This is an employer contribution only.

www.jacc.co.za

Employment Tax Incentive (ETI)

The ETI was introduced with the objective of generating employment opportunities for young and less experienced work seekers.

The incentive reduces the cost of hiring young people to employers through a cost-sharing mechanism with government, while leaving the wage of the employee unaffected. Compliant employers are able to reduce their PAYE liabilities by claiming ETI.

The ETI was implemented with effect from 1 January 2014 and will end on 28 February 2029.

Eligible employers can claim ETI for a maximum period of 24 qualifying months in relation to qualifying employees.

Employers are able to claim ETI up to a maximum of:

- R1 500 per qualifying employee per month in the first twelve months and up to
- R750 per qualifying employee per month in the second twelve months.

Effective 1 April 2025, the formula to calculate the incentive and the eligible monthly remuneration bands will be adjusted.

The incentive is nil for qualifying employees who earn R7 500 and more.

Monthly remuneration	First 12 months	Second 12 months
R0 to R1 999,99	75% of monthly remuneration	37,5% of monthly remuneration

R4500 to R6499,99	R1 500 – (0.75 x (monthly remuneration – R4 500))	R750 – (0.375 x (monthly remuneration – R4 500))
Effective 1 April 2025
Monthly remuneration	First 12 months	Second 12 months
R0 - R2 499,99	60% of monthly remuneration	30% of monthly remuneration

R5 500 - R7 499,99	R1 500 - (0.6 x (month remuneration - R5 500))	R750 - (0.3 x (month remuneration - R5 500))

■ Changes proposed per Chapter 4 page 42 ■ Interpretation of the implied changes

ETI reimbursements are classified as refunds for purposes of the Tax Administration Act and accordingly may be subject to the imposition of understatement penalties if ETI is claimed incorrectly.

To curb abuse of the ETI, punitive measures have been introduced.

Value-Added Tax

- Standard rate:
 - 16% (from 1 April 2026*)

Corporate income tax

Third-party backed shares

Additional anti-avoidance measures will be introduced into section 8EA of the Income Tax Act.

Hybrid-equity instruments

The definition of “hybrid-equity instruments” in section 8E of the Income Tax Act will be amended to address schemes that circumvent the application of the anti-avoidance provisions in relation to preference shares.

www.jacc.co.za

Clarifying the order of set-off of the balance of assessed losses and certain deductions

The current assessed loss rules limit the set-off of any balance of assessed losses to 80% of taxable income. Deductions in respect of donations as well as transfers from policyholder funds to the corporate fund in terms of section 29A of the Income Tax Act are also limited with reference to taxable income. Amendments will be introduced to clarify whether the assessed losses limitation or limitation in respect of donations / policyholder fund transfers must be applied first.

Clarifying the roll-over relief for listed shares in asset-for-share transactions

The current provisions of section 42 of the Income Tax Act do not roll over the historical base cost of listed company shares where the company acquiring the listed company shares holds at least either 25% or 35% of the listed company shares following the transaction. This effectively allows the acquiror to have a step up in base cost.

The provisions of section 42 of the Income Tax Act will be amended to reflect the policy intention that the regime for listed company shares should only apply to shareholders holding less than 20% of the shares in the listed company prior to the asset-for-share transaction.

Reviewing the asset-for-share provisions and amalgamation provisions in relation to transactions involving collective investment schemes

The asset-for-share provisions in section 42 of the Income Tax Act as well as the amalgamation provisions in section 44 may apply to the transfer of interest in a collective investment scheme (CIS) allowing the tax neutral transfer of equities to the CIS. The subsequent disposal of the equities by the CIS is however not taxed in terms of paragraph 61 of the Eighth Schedule. The provisions of section 42 and 44 in relation to CIS's will be reviewed.

Clarifying the interest limitation rules

Various amendments are proposed to the interest limitation provisions contained in section 23N and section 23M of the Income Tax Act. These include:

- Limiting the definition of "interest" to be used in the calculation of "adjusted taxable income" in section 23M to interest as defined in section 24J of the Income Tax Act.

- Extending the carve-out to section 23M in relation to back-to-back lending arrangements to arrangements where there is no controlling relationship between the ultimate lending institution and the debtor.
- Clarifying the application of section 23M where no foreign exchange gain accrues to the creditor to make it clear that the underlying debt should first be tested. If the underlying debt falls within the ambit of section 23M, the foreign exchange difference in relation to the debt will also be limited.
- A review of the impact of the 2024 amendments to section 23N in relation to the definition of "adjusted taxable income" and the formula to limit the interest deduction with reference to the definition of "adjusted taxable income" and the formula to limit interest deduction applied in section 23M. The proposed effective date of these amendments is currently 1 January 2027. Any changes in this regard will form part of the 2026 Budget proposals.

Other incentives

Incentives review

The following changes were proposed:

- The urban development zone tax incentive sunset date will be extended by five years from 31 March 2025 to 31 March 2030.
- The section 12L energy-efficiency tax incentive sunset date will be extended by five years from 1 January 2026 to 31 December 2030.

Provisional tax

Provisional tax – individuals / companies

- First payment: To be made within 6 months from the start of the tax year.
- Second payment: To be made by the last day of the tax year.
- Third payment: Voluntary payment to be made within 7 months after the tax year end (if tax year end is 28/29 February), or to be made within 6 months after year end (if tax year end falls on any other date).

A provisional taxpayer is any person who earns income by way of remuneration from an unregistered employer, or income that is not remuneration or an allowance or advance payable by the person's principal. An individual is not required to pay provisional tax if the individual does not carry on any business and the individual's taxable income:

- will not exceed the tax threshold for the tax year; or
- from interest, dividends, foreign dividends, rental from the letting of fixed property will be R30 000 or less for the tax year.

Provisional tax returns showing an estimation of total taxable income for the year of assessment are required from provisional taxpayers.

Deceased estates are not provisional taxpayers.

Provisional tax – penalties on late payment, late submission and underestimation

The following penalties may be imposed:

- A 10% penalty for the late payment of the amount of provisional tax due.
- A 20% penalty for the underestimation of the amount of provisional tax due.
- The 20% underestimation penalty is reduced by the amount of any late payment penalty imposed. Both of these penalties constitute percentage based penalties in terms of section 213 of the Tax Administration Act.

The 20% underestimation penalty will only be triggered in the following scenarios:

- When a taxpayer reports an estimate of taxable income of less than R1 million for the purposes of the second provisional tax return (form IRP6) and that estimate of taxable income is less than 90% of the final assessed taxable income per the assessment (form ITA34) and is less than the "basic amount" (i.e. the taxable income per the most recent previous assessment issued).
- When a taxpayer reports an estimate of taxable income of more than R1 million for the purposes of the second provisional tax return (form IRP6) and that estimate of taxable income is less than 80% of the taxable income per the final assessment (form ITA34).

Estate Duty | South African Revenue Service

Estate duty is levied on the “dutiable value” of an estate at a rate of 20% on the first R30 million. A tax rate of 25% will apply where the dutiable value of an estate is above R30 million. A basic deduction of R3.5 million is allowed in the determination of an estate’s liability for estate duty, as well as deductions for liabilities, bequests to Public Benefit Organisations (PBOs) and property accruing to surviving spouses.

Donations tax

A rate of 20% will be payable on the value of property donated. Donations exceeding R30 million in value will be taxed at a rate of 25%.

The first R100 000 of property donated in each year by a natural person is exempt from donations tax. For taxpayers who are not natural persons, exempt donations are limited to casual gifts not exceeding a total of R10 000 per annum. Donations between spouses, South African group companies and to certain PBOs are exempt from donations tax.

Voluntary Disclosure Programme

Provisions for a general Voluntary Disclosure Programme (VDP) are contained in the Tax Administration Act, in terms of which taxpayers (corporate entities, individuals, etc.), can approach SARS with a view to regularise their tax affairs, with the prospect of remittance of certain penalties.

It was announced in the 2021 budget that the VDP provisions would be reviewed to ensure that the provisions align with strategic and policy objectives of the programme. There has been no subsequent announcement regarding the progress of the review of the VDP provisions.
